■ WORKING PAPER

ENFORCEMENT OF NON-TARIFF MEASURES: DOES IT MATTER?

2020

☑ IIMB Working Paper 611 (with Bernardo Blum and Kunal Dasgupta)

We use data and a textual analysis algorithm to uncover that at least 28% of the Singaporean imports are affected by per shipment compliance costs created by non-tariff trade barriers which in turn, have a large direct welfare effect on the economy, when the compliance creates a fixed cost. These compliance requirements are particularly damaging for smaller, less productive exporters.

DISAGGREGATED INDIAN INDUSTRIAL CYCLES: A SPECTRAL ANALYSIS

2020

☑ IGIDR Working Paper 2020-033 (with Ashima Goyal)

(under review)

We study the structure and dating of disaggregated Indian industrial cycles. Co-movement across industries points to some common drivers. Spectral causality from different policy parameters to these cycles point to the differences in impact by industry type which might be due to the structure of the economy.

GLOBALIZATION AND WORKFORCE COMPOSITION IN INDIAN FORMAL MANUFACTURING: NEW EVIDENCE ON PRODUCT MARKET COMPETITION CHANNEL

☑ IGIDR Working Paper 2020-039 (with K.V. Ramaswamy)

(under review)

We use industry level panel data to analyse the indirect link between product market structure (concentration) and workforce composition of firms (usage of contract workers) by explicitly measuring changes in market concentration using a newly constructed trade-adjusted concentration ratio.

SLUMS IN KOLKATA: A SOCIO-ECONOMIC ANALYSIS

☑ EEQEL (with Santanu Ghosh)

This paper presents and discusses primary data from a survey of 96 households taken from five different slums of Kolkata. It attempts to examine the socio-economic aspects of slums surveyed in this paper in terms of income, education, savings, sanitation, financial inclusion etc.
